WHAT'S NEW IN THIS VERSION (V3)

- Brand name updated — MyPrivateTours.com (confirmed by Sam, 3 April 2026)
- 8 cities — Paris, Rome, London, Barcelona, Florence, Prague, Venice, New York (up from 5)
- Dual UX reference — GetYourGuide.com + CityWonders.com both documented
- Mega menu — City dropdown in global nav expands to show sub-categories per city
- Adaptive sub-category design — Layout adjusts based on number of tours per attraction (1-2 tours vs 4+ tours)
- City page approach confirmed — All tours listed on city page; sub-category buttons at top link to standalone SEO pages
- Blog articles — Sticky conversion sidebar added (relevant tours displayed while user reads)
- Sub-category page count revised to ~5 per city × 8 cities = ~40 pages

Mega Menu: Hovering on "City Tours" or any city name in the navigation expands a mega menu showing that city's attraction sub-categories (e.g. hover Paris → Eiffel Tower Tours | Louvre Museum | Seine River Cruises | Versailles Day Trips). On mobile, this becomes an expandable hamburger accordion.

Homepage

myprivatetours.com/

The primary entry point and main conversion page. Designed to immediately communicate the MyPrivateTours.com brand — premium, private, expert-led tours across 8 European and global cities. The page is city-led and experience-driven, with all content oriented toward encouraging visitors to explore tours and book.

Hero Section

Full-width image or video background. Headline ("Discover the World Privately"). Short sub-headline. Primary CTA button (Explore Tours / Browse Cities). Search bar or city selector overlay. Large, premium visual impact above the fold.

Featured Cities Grid

8 city cards displayed in a 4x2 grid — Paris, Rome, London, Barcelona, Florence, Prague, Venice, New York. High-quality destination photography per card. City name + short tagline. Each card links to its dedicated city page.

Why MyPrivateTours

3–4 differentiating value propositions: Expert local guides, 100% private groups, Flexible booking, Fully curated experiences. Icon + headline + 1-line description per benefit. Builds immediate trust and distinction from mass-market competitors.

Featured / Popular Tours

Horizontal scroll or grid of 6–8 highlighted tours across all 8 cities. Each card: tour name, city tag, price from, duration, star rating. Pulled live from Bokun product feed. Showcases range and quality immediately.

Customer Testimonials

3–5 review cards in a carousel. Star rating, reviewer name, city toured, and review excerpt. Can pull from TripAdvisor or Google Reviews widget. Key trust signal for first-time visitors.

Trust Badges

Verified reviews, Secure booking (SSL), 24/7 support availability, Free cancellation highlight, Total travellers served counter. Displayed as a clean horizontal strip — social proof at a glance.

From the Blog

3 latest travel guides or blog posts. Thumbnail + title + city tag + read time. Links through to / blog. Supports SEO interlinking and demonstrates content depth to search engines.

Email Newsletter Signup

Newsletter capture block. Headline ("Exclusive tour deals + travel guides"). Email field + subscribe button. Integrates with Mailchimp. Builds owned audience for retargeting and direct marketing.

City Landing Pages

/paris /rome /london /barcelona /florence /prague /venice /
new-york

The primary destination hub for each city. These pages function as tour listing pages first — all tours for the city are displayed here. Attraction sub-category buttons sit at the top for easy navigation to specific attractions, linking through to their own dedicated SEO pages. The hero is deliberately compact so that the first row of tours is always visible on load without scrolling. One template, cloned and populated for all 8 cities. UX references: GetYourGuide city pages + CityWonders city pages.

Compact Hero Slider

UPDATED

Small-height slider (not full-screen). 2-3 city imagery slides rotating. H1 title (e.g. "Paris Tours") and a short description displayed as overlay text directly on the image. Height is constrained so the first row of tour listings is always visible below the fold without scrolling — this is a firm UX requirement.

Client UX requirement

Sub-Category Attraction Buttons

KEY

Links to SEO sub-pages

Dynamic Filters Bar

Frontend filter controls for user convenience: Start time (morning / afternoon / evening), Price range (slider), Duration, Star rating, Group size. These filter the tour listing in place — they are NOT separate pages. Applied to the full city tour catalogue displayed below. Powered via Bokun data attributes.

All City Tours Listing

The full catalogue of all tours available in this city, displayed as a grid or list. Each tour card: image, tour name, duration, price from, star rating, number of reviews, "Book Now" CTA. Pulled live from Bokun. Paginated or infinite scroll. This is the primary content of the city page — all tours are visible here, not just featured ones.

City Text Description

NEW

SEO copy block positioned below the tour listings. 150-300 words about the city, why it's exceptional for private tours, and what makes MyPrivateTours.com's offering distinct. Written by copywriter, targeted to primary city + "private tours" keyword cluster.

SEO copy — copywriter required

Travel Guides for This City

NEW

Section pulling 3-4 blog posts tagged with this city. Displayed as guide cards (thumbnail, title, read time, city tag). Links through to /blog/[article-slug]. Supports SEO interlinking between city pages and blog content. Keeps visitors on site longer.

City-Level Reviews

NEW

Aggregated review section for all tours in this city. Shows overall rating, total review count, and 4-6 individual review cards (reviewer name, tour taken, star rating, excerpt). Pulled

FAQ Accordion

NEW

Collapsible FAQ section specific to this city. 5-8 questions: how to book, cancellation policy, what's included, meeting points, group size, languages available. Expands and collapses on from TripAdvisor / Google widget or Bokun review data. Provides city-level social proof.

Attraction Sub-Category Pages

/paris/eiffel-tower-tours/ · /rome/colosseum-tours/ · /london/tower-of-london/ · etc.

Standalone, individually-indexed SEO pages for each key attraction or tour type within a city. These are real CMS pages — not parameterized filter URLs. Each has its own unique URL, unique content, and is independently indexed by Google. The template is near-identical to the city page. The page shows only tours relevant to the specific attraction. Estimated ~5 sub-categories per city across 8 cities = ~40 pages total. Final attraction list to be confirmed per city.

Adaptive design note: The layout of the tour listing section adjusts based on the number of available tours — a grid/collage format is used when 4+ tours are available; a single-feature card format is used when only 1-2 tours exist for an attraction. The designer will be briefed to produce both variants.

Compact Hero Slider

Breadcrumb Navigation

Home → Paris → Eiffel Tower Tours. Clearly shows the page hierarchy. Supports breadcrumb structured data schema for Google search. Allows users to navigate back to the city page easily.

Breadcrumb schema

Dynamic Filters Bar

Same filter controls as city page (start time, price, duration, rating, group size). Applies only to tours listed on this specific attraction page. Allows visitors to refine their choice within the attraction category.

Attraction Tour Listings

ADAPTIVE

Tour cards for this specific attraction only. Layout adapts to number of tours: 4+ tours = grid/collage view; 1-2 tours = single feature card with expanded detail. All pulled from Bokun, filtered by attraction tag. Users can always see related city tours in the section below.

Attraction Description

SEO copy block about the specific attraction — what it is, why visit, best time to go, what to expect on a private tour. 150-250 words, keyword-targeted to the attraction. Provides unique content per page, which is essential for individual page indexing and ranking.

Unique content — copywriter required

Related Attractions

Links to other sub-category pages within the same city. E.g. on the Eiffel Tower page: "Also in Paris → Louvre Museum | Seine River Cruises | Versailles Day Trips". Internal linking between sub-category pages strengthens the overall site SEO architecture.

Attraction Reviews

Reviews specific to tours in this attraction category. Aggregated star rating + individual review cards. Pulled from Bokun or TripAdvisor filtered by attraction/product tag. Reinforces trust and conversion at the point of browsing.

FAQ Accordion

Attraction-specific FAQ. E.g. "Do I need to queue at the Eiffel Tower on a private tour?", "Is entrance included?", "Can I book last minute?". 4-6 questions. Accordion format. FAQ schema markup for Google rich results.

Individual Tour Pages

/tours/paris-private-eiffel-tower-tour/ · /tours/rome-colosseum-skip-the-line/ · etc.

One dedicated page per tour product. The primary booking and conversion page — every detail a visitor needs to decide and book is here. Includes full itinerary, live Bokun availability calendar, reviews, cancellation policy, and meeting point map. Each tour page has unique content and is individually indexed. Template is consistent across all 20-40 tours.

Tour Photo Gallery

Full-width image gallery at the top of the page. 4-8 photos per tour. Lightbox view on click. Shows the experience — locations visited, the guide, highlights, and atmosphere. High-quality imagery is essential for conversion.

Tour Header Info

Tour title (H1), city tag, duration, group size (private), language(s) available, star rating + total review count, price from (displayed prominently). Breadcrumb: Home → City → Tour Name. All key decision data above the fold.

Bokun Live Booking Widget

Live availability calendar fed directly from Bokun. Date picker, time slot selector, variant/option selection (group size, tour type), real-time pricing display, "Book Now" button. Handles the full booking flow. Widget is sticky on desktop as the user scrolls. Confirmed API active.

Bokun integration — confirmed

Tour Overview

What's included checklist, what's not included checklist, highlights bullet list (5-8 key selling points), tour type (private), accessibility notes, group size range, meeting point summary.

Detailed Itinerary

Step-by-step breakdown of the tour. Each stop: name, description, time spent. Meeting point details. Estimated finish time and end point. Presented clearly so visitors understand exactly what they're booking.

Meeting Point Map

Embedded Google Map showing the exact meeting point. Full address text. "Get Directions" external link. Any special instructions (landmark, what to look for, what to wear). Reduces pre-tour friction and support queries.

Cancellation Policy

Clear, plain-language cancellation terms. Free cancellation window (e.g. 48 hours prior). Bad weather policy. Refund process and timeline. Displayed prominently near the booking widget. Reduces hesitation at point of purchase.

Tour Reviews

Reviews specific to this tour. TripAdvisor or Google Reviews widget, or Bokun review feed. Aggregated star rating, total count, and individual review cards with name, date, rating, and text. Filter by star rating option.

Tour FAQ Accordion

3-5 tour-specific FAQs. E.g. "Is the Eiffel Tower entrance included?", "What language does the guide speak?", "Can I customise the itinerary?". Accordion format. FAQ schema markup for Google rich results.

Similar Tours

3-4 recommended tours from the same city displayed as cards below the main content. Keeps the visitor on site if the current tour doesn't fit their needs. Cross-sells across the catalogue. Carousel format on mobile.

Blog / Travel Guides

/blog · /blog/[article-slug]/

SEO-critical content hub. Travel guides, city tips, attraction write-ups, and itinerary inspiration. Content feeds the "Travel Guides" sections on each city page. Blog index + individual article pages. Supports organic search ranking across all 8 cities. Articles must include a tour conversion mechanism (see below).

Blog Index Page

All articles displayed in a grid. Filter by city (Paris / Rome / London / etc.). Featured or recent posts at top. Each card: thumbnail, title, city tag, read time, short excerpt.

Article Pages

Individual guide articles. Full body text with images. Author and publish date. City tag linking back to city page. Social share buttons. Related articles at the bottom. Each article cross-links to relevant tour pages and sub-category pages for SEO interlinking.

Sticky Conversion Sidebar NEW

On desktop: a sticky sidebar visible while the visitor scrolls and reads the article. Displays 2-3 relevant tour cards (matching the article's city or attraction). On mobile: an inline CTA block embedded mid-article. Converts content readers into tour bookers without interrupting the reading experience.

Agreed in April 3 call — Ahmet's request

Internal Linking

Articles interlink to city pages, sub-category pages, and tour detail pages. This is the primary SEO interlinking mechanism across the whole site. Every article must include at least 2 internal links to relevant tour or city content.

B2B Travel Agent Portal

/b2b

Dedicated page for travel agents, concierge services, and corporate partners. Explains the trade programme and partnership benefits. Captures qualified leads and auto-generates a discount code on submission.

TECHNICAL NOTES FOR DEVELOPMENT TEAM

Sub-category pages: Must be created as real WordPress CMS pages with unique slugs — not dynamic routes or query parameters. Each needs its own content entry, unique meta title, and unique meta description for SEO.

Dynamic filters: Price, start time, duration, rating, and group size filters work as frontend JavaScript filters on the existing tour grid. No new pages are created. City and sub-category pages share the same filter component.

Mega menu: Global navigation requires a mega menu component — hovering on a city name expands a dropdown showing that city's sub-category links. Must also work as a collapsible accordion on mobile/hamburger menu.

Bokun integration: API access confirmed (Sam has provided access to Jatin). Tour listing grids and booking widgets pull live from Bokun. City and sub-category pages filter by city/attraction tag from Bokun product catalogue.

Blog → City page connection: Travel guides section on city pages pulls blog posts filtered by city tag. Blog CMS entries need a "city" taxonomy field to enable this. Confirm with developer before content entry begins.

Adaptive sub-category layout: Designer to produce two layout variants for the attraction tour listing: grid/collage (4+ tours) and single feature card (1–2 tours). Developer to implement conditional layout based on Bokun tour count per attraction.
